The Rin St t   t

is the newspaper of the University of Victoria. Its purpose is to advance the mission and ob VALUES AND PRINCIPLES

Th embodies the values of the university as articulated in the strategic plan: intellectual and ethical integrity, freedom of speech and freedom of inquiry, and equal rights and dignity of all persons.

Th earns its credibility through adherence to scrupulous standards of accuracy, fairness, editorial integrity and sensitivity; respect for diverse viewpoints; and commitment to the open exchange of ideas.

Th serves the priorities, goals and interests of the university as a whole and not those of particular constituent units or individual members of the university community. It is not intended as a comprehensive record of university activities. Views expressed in Th do not necessarily represent university policy.

Criteria for decisions on content include relevance to the university's goals, ability to enhance the university's sense of community, timeliness, potential appeal to readers and availability of space in the paper.

Th helps build the sense of community at UVic in part by:
- Celebrating significant accomplishments of UVic faculty, students, staff, programs and units
- Fostering understanding of what distinguishes UVic as a place to learn, teach, conduct research and work
- Reflecting UVic's reputation as one of Canada's leading teaching and research institutions
- Informing faculty, staff and students about the major issues facing the university
- Reporting on campus appointments at the most senior level
- Promoting UVic-sponsored public events that are of broad appeal and are most closely related to the university's priorities.

Executive council provides administrative oversight of Th by establishing this statement of purpose and principles.

An editorial advisory board will make recommendations on matters of general policy and advise the editor and managing editor. The members of the editorial advisory board are appointed by the president.

Editorial and administrative responsibility for Th