

ARCTIC AND ()25(A)24(N)24 1 C

largely southern-based residents with the concerns voiced by newly empowered Indigenous communities about the impacts these activities may have on their way of life. This course addresses these topics, and other physical and human dimensions of the Polar Regions, within historical, contemporary, and future contexts. We will place emphasis on Canada's unique position within the myriad of issues facing the Polar Regions, and take time to celebrate a unique region which has excited the imagination for many centuries.

Course Schedule and Location

Readings

Required Text: Antarctica: Global Science from a Frozen Continent, ed. David W.H. Walton.

values of honesty, trust, and responsibility. It is expected that students will respect these ethical values in all activities related to learning, teaching, research, and service. Therefore, plagiarism and other acts against academic integrity are serious academic offences.